Course Design Requirements

Teaching online is not the same as teaching in a classroom. I don't think this comes as any surprise to anyone. With that in mind, there are some course design requirements that need to be met to ensure a quality experience for our students. The following items are required in all course shells:

1. Instructor Information Tab to include; course name, instructor, contact info, location, and office hours.
2. Syllabus

3. Introduction and if desired Welcome Video (be sure to caption any videos created).
4. Method of Communication (Email, Chat, Live Classrooms, Blackboard IM, Discussion Boards, etc.)
5. Assignments
6. Course interaction, courses must have some form of interaction included, without this they are considered correspondence courses.
7. Assigned due dates. Courses must have some assignments with due dates due to accreditation requirements.

Online Instructor Responsibilities

In an online setting, instructors have certain responsibilities for which they are accountable.

1. Instructors must use the Learning Management System (Blackboard) selected by Williston State College for all online courses offered by WSC. Offering courses through the designated Learning Management System will assist the college in areas such as accountability, assessment, and consistency.
2. Instructors must maintain a current and up-to-date course shell. The Extended Learning Office will review course shells, including content and communication with students every two weeks throughout a semester. This process will be documented and given to the appropriate supervisor.
 - a. Within the syllabus or course requirements, instructors must establish and maintain regular, consistent set of days and times when they will correspond with the students within the Learning Management System no less than three a week, including responding to messages from students. For instance, M, W, F or Tues, Thurs, Sat.
 - b. In the event that the instructor cannot meet the correspondence schedule, the instructor will inform the Director for Extended Learning and the appropriate Department Chair.
 - c. All instructors must utilize a NDUS email account for all email communication related to online courses.
3. Instructors are to set due dates consistent with the established calendar days of the semester. Due dates must respect all holidays and breaks for online students and on-campus students equally.
4. When creating a course, instructors must have the following items included on the homepage of their Learning Management System course:
 - a. Instructor Information including instructor name, instructor office hours and contact information, and instructor location. This should be found under the Instructor Information tab on in the left menu of the course.
 - b. Syllabus (utilizing template sent out by your department heads each semester).
 - c. Method of Communication (Email, Chat, Live Classrooms, Blackboard IM, Discussions, etc.)
 - d. Course materials
 - e. Assignments
 - f. Due Dates
5. For each course, student evaluations will be conducted as per the policies and procedures of the Academic Affairs Office. All instructors are required to participate in all online classes, regardless of status. (i.e. adjunct, full-time instructor, tenured instructor, assistant professor, or associate professor).
6. Student grades should be posted using the Grade book tool in the learning management system. Student Grade Consent forms are no longer required so long as grades are disseminated only through the LMS or PeopleSoft.

7. Instructors are to meet all deadlines as outlined in the Semester Checklist for submitting course content that they wish to have uploaded by Extended Learning staff.
 - a. Failure to meet these deadlines will result in courses not being open on time.
 - b. Complaints occurring from late submission of course content will be documented and then forwarded for the instructor to address.
8. Instructors are responsible for all content in their course, and should keep a backup of their course in case of emergency. Extended Learning staff will be happy to schedule one-on-one training to ensure instructors are comfortable with this process.
9. All student enrollments must go through the Admissions Office. At no time should an instructor enroll a student into a Learning Management System course.
10. Because our college has the motto “Where the People Make the Difference,” we want to encourage all instructors to act professionally with their students regarding the following:
 - a. Using complete sentences and correct grammar.
 - b. Statements of courtesy and respect.

Accessibility Support Services

Williston State College provides academic support services to eligible students with disabilities, promotes student development, and serves as a resource for disability awareness and accommodations.

Williston State College defines a disability as a professionally verified condition, which substantially limits a major life activity (Section 504, ADA). This includes, but may not be limited to cognitive disabilities, motor disabilities, psychiatric disabilities, speech impairments, hearing impairments, and visual impairments.

To obtain disability services, a student must identify himself/herself to the WSC Accessibility Support Office. The Accessibility Support Office determines the appropriate accommodations for each individual student and issues a notice to them with the specified accommodations. The student, who is eligible for disability accommodations, has the responsibility to meet with his/her instructors and provide them with the notice. Students utilizing support services must observe the same college policies and academic regulations required of all students.
