Additionally, our housing facilities feature common areas that encourage social interaction and collaboration among students. Research has consistently shown that living on campus has numerous benefits for students. It has been proven that students who live on campus tend to have higher retention rates, perform better academically, and have increased opportunities for involvement in campus activities and organizations. Living on campus fosters a strong sense of community, allowing students to form lasting friendships, develop interpersonal skills, and engage in a well-rounded college experience. Furthermore, the proximity to campus resources, such as the Learning Commons, Teton Grill, and Williston Area Recreations Center, provides students with easy access to the tools and opportunities necessary for their personal and academic growth.
